Kloster und Bildung im Mittelalter (Veröffentlichungen des Max-Planck-Instituts für Geschichte)

Starting point of this book is the Ebstorf map which has been discussed controversially within the last decades. It is still one of the most central medieval pictorial documents without which a great exposition of medieval history could hardly be found. The study introduces the reader to the pictorial world of medieval illumination and tapestry, what they originally intended and expressed and how they were read. Another focus lies on Gervasius of Tilbury who is considered to be the creator of the Ebstorf map. The wider context is the question of how the map could have evolved out of the Northern German monastic educational system.
