“It’s hard to live a lie. It’s even harder to show the world who you really are.”

A world class liar and a cheat, Rosie Black has always used her skills to get what she wanted. But when the law catches up to her and her career is destroyed, she finally decides she’s had enough. Hired to be a nanny to newborn twins, Rosie thinks life in the sleepy historical town of Natchitoches seems like a great way avoid the mistakes she’s made and the people she’s hurt. Her plan is to snuggle sweet babies during the day and retire to her quiet apartment above the little vintage bookstore at night. But there’s something special about By the Book, and despite her best intentions, Rosie is drawn into a tight-knit group of quirky, faithful friends. One man in particular makes her wonder if her life could ever be more than cautionary tale. But when Rosie’s past and present collide, will the promise of a second chance with Blue be enough to face the unthinkable?

A tale of hope, laughter, and finding your God-given purpose. This is a clean Christian inspirational romance, approximately 225 pages and includes recipes.
