Utilization of Greenhouse Gases (ACS Symposium Series)

This book brings together a special collection of papers on the utilization of greenhouse gases. Innovative techniques including biochemical fixation, plasma conversion, and microwave application, are a special feature of this book. The fundamental, economic, technical, and future development issues with these technologies are discussed in detail.

Some novel reactor configurations and catalyst designs for the utilization of greenhouse gases are also discussed. Typically, these new reactors and catalysts represent the development of environmentally friendly chemical processes.
