Detailed description:

When he first awakens on the beach of a lonely tropical island, Sergeant John Fletcher has no idea what he's in for. He's a battlefield hacker, a veteran of the Green Wars that pitted the exploiters against the exploited and nearly tore the Earth apart. He's out of his depth in the jungle, preferring wires and circuits to leaves and mud. Then armed sentry bots lock onto him and he's thrust right back into territory that's all too familiar. The island's mysterious inhabitants don't seem to care that the wars ended.

Making his way to the heart of a hidden jungle facility, John is confronted by an immense artificial intelligence and her ex-commando handler. An escalating game of cat and mouse leads John deeper and deeper into the secrets the island's creator left behind. It's not as easy as blowing things up and escaping, however.

There are things on this island that must not be allowed to get off it.
