Saggi (Classici della letteratura europea) (Italian Edition) Michel de Montaigne

I Saggi di Montaigne non sono un breviario di saggezza ben temperata, un prontuario di morale salutare, ma lo specchio delle paure e delle difese di un essere che si scopre frammentario e diversificato. È infatti Montaigne stesso il soggetto di questo libro: soggetto mutevole, di cui appunto non l'essere si può descrivere, ma solo il passaggio, e un passaggio "di giorno in giorno, di minuto in minuto", adattando la descrizione al momento.

Con alcuni secoli di anticipo sulle ricerche della psicologia, Montaigne sperimenta come la personalità sia un aggregato provvisorio, incomprensibile e affascinante, di soggetti istantanei, un mosaico di io che variano secondo le contingenze. Non per nulla i Saggi sono un'opera in divenire, in continua trasformazione.

I due libri consegnati al tipografo per la prima volta nel 1580 (e ristampati con alcune aggiunte nel 1582), nella successiva edizione del 1588 si trovano accresciuti d'un terzo libro, non solo, ma intarsiati di più di seicento addizioni: via via che l'io muta – senza peraltro rinnegare la sua forma precedente – l'opera, sosia dell'io, dovrà mimarne le metamorfosi. Per la prima volta in edizione tascabile la nuova traduzione di Fausta Garavini, condotta sul testo stabilito da André Tournon e con un ricco apparato di commento, che fanno di questo volume un contributo fondamentale per apprezzare la modernità della scrittura dei Saggi.
