The Shadow of the Baron Laura Lavayén

Laura Lavayén was born in Bariloche, Province of Rio Negro, Argentina, where she lived as a girl and as a teenager. Among the many circumstances experienced during her childhood, the author relates the lack of understanding, especially from her mother, who never agreed with her behavior. The old ranch in the outskirts of Bariloche - where the family lived and where her father was a foreman - was one of her nightmares. Not far from the place where she used to play with her brothers and sister, they found broken remains that probably belonged to the former inhabitant in the area. Later on, they learn that they had belonged to a German Baron named Ludwig von Bülow. The Baron was a fanatic and kept repeating that, if Germany lost the war, he would commit suicide. He did. The Baron starved to death after destroying all his belongings brought from Germany. The only things left, very close to Laura's home, were a pine tree - also brought from Germany - and his grave surrounded by an iron railing. Soon after the Baron's death, people said that his spirit wandered in the area and this was a recurring nightmare for Laura. She also relates her struggle in an attempt to complete her primary school, living with relatives with whom her relationship was also extremely traumatic.
